

A close-up photograph of a diverse bouquet of flowers. The central focus is a large cluster of light pink, multi-petaled flowers, possibly peonies, which are wet with dew. To the left, there are smaller, bright red flowers with yellow centers. In the upper right, a single white daisy with a blue center stands out. The background is filled with various green leaves and stems, including some with a silvery-grey hue. The overall scene is bright and colorful, with a soft, natural light.

Matthew 13:26 But when the blade
was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.