

A still life photograph featuring a variety of fresh fruits and a butterfly. The scene is set on a vibrant red surface, possibly a tablecloth or a large bowl. Several slices of cantaloupe are scattered across the frame, showing their characteristic orange flesh and green rind. Interspersed among the melon are several slices of bright orange citrus fruit, likely oranges or grapefruit. A large, dark butterfly with intricate patterns on its wings is perched on one of the orange slices. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the textures of the fruit and the delicate structure of the butterfly. The overall composition is visually appealing and serves as a background for the overlaid text.

2nd Kings 21:26 And he was buried in his sepulchre in the garden of Uzza: and Josiah his son reigned in his stead.