

A close-up photograph of several bright red geranium flowers with five petals each, set against a blurred green background of foliage. The flowers are in various stages of bloom, with some fully open and others as buds. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the petals.

Job 15:12 Why doth thine heart carry thee away? and what do thy eyes wink at,