

Numbers 17:13 Whosoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD shall die: shall we be consumed with dying?

A close-up photograph of several vibrant pink roses. The roses are in full bloom, with many layers of petals. Some petals have small, clear water droplets on them, suggesting they were recently watered or it has rained. The background is a soft-focus green, likely other plants or grass in a garden. The overall lighting is bright and natural, highlighting the texture and color of the flowers.