

A scenic view of a river flowing through a rocky canyon. The river is a vibrant green color, contrasting with the grey and brown tones of the surrounding rocks. The canyon walls are rugged and layered, with some sparse green vegetation and dry, tangled branches in the foreground. The overall atmosphere is natural and somewhat somber due to the rocky terrain.

Romans 02:15 Which show the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts the man while accusing or else excusing one another;