

Matthew 13:16 But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

A close-up photograph of a vibrant red rose with numerous water droplets on its petals, set against a background of green leaves. The rose is the central focus, with its petals layered and slightly curled. The water droplets are scattered across the surface, catching the light. The background consists of out-of-focus green foliage, creating a soft, natural setting.